More than 50,000 men circumcised to curb HIV

IT'S AN UNASSUMING TOWNSHIP: large, sprawling and poor. But it is the origin of the research that showed the world that medical circumcision has reduced the probability of contracting HIV.

The science developed in Orange Farm, south of Johannesburg, has changed the lives of two million Africans.

The youths then "go to the mountains" for the customary ceremonies after a safe operation.

"I didn't want any regrets," he said. "This way it's safe; it's convenient."

Komane said he was terrified and thought he would die but nevertheless watched the operation.

"I saw scissors going through my dick and cutting."

Fellow patient 18-year-old Kagiso Motsweyenane said women preferred circumcised men and "there are certain things a woman won't do [in bed] unless you are circumcised."

IT’S A SNIP: Dr Thabo Mashigo performs a circumcision at the Boipelo Clinic in Orange Farm, south of Johannesburg. He has more than 25,000 such snips under his belt.

Pictures: DANIEL BORN

CHECK-UP: A boy after being circumcised at the Orange Farm clinic at which the procedure is done safely and in a matter of minutes.

KATHARINE CHILD

IT’S A SNIP: Dr Thabo Mashigo performs a circumcision at the Boipelo Clinic in Orange Farm, south of Johannesburg. He has more than 25,000 such snips under his belt.

Pictures: DANIEL BORN

CHECK-UP: A boy after being circumcised at the Orange Farm clinic at which the procedure is done safely and in a matter of minutes.

More than 50,000 men circumcised to curb HIV

Winter is circumcision season because it is believed that the penis heals more quickly when it is cold.

Men and boys have been queuing from 5am to be circumcised.

"I don't want to turn men away," said Mashigo, who takes less than six minutes to do the job.

Six minutes to do the job.

Mashigo, had done more circumcisions than any other doctor in South Africa.

With 25,000 snips under his belt, he has earned his nickname, "Dr C turnaround".

"I don't want to turn men away," said Mashigo, who takes less than six minutes to do the job.

IT’S A SNIP: Dr Thabo Mashigo performs a circumcision at the Boipelo Clinic in Orange Farm, south of Johannesburg. He has more than 25,000 such snips under his belt.

Pictures: DANIEL BORN

CHECK-UP: A boy after being circumcised at the Orange Farm clinic at which the procedure is done safely and in a matter of minutes.

KATHARINE CHILD

IT’S AN UNASSUMING TOWNSHIP: large, sprawling and poor. But it is the origin of the research that showed the world that medical circumcision has reduced the probability of contracting HIV.

The science developed in Orange Farm, south of Johannesburg, has changed the lives of two million Africans.

The youths then "go to the mountains" for the customary ceremonies after a safe operation.

"I didn't want any regrets," he said. "This way it's safe; it's convenient."

Komane said he was terrified and thought he would die but nevertheless watched the operation.

"I saw scissors going through my dick and cutting."

Fellow patient 18-year-old Kagiso Motsweyenane said women preferred circumcised men and "there are certain things a woman won't do [in bed] unless you are circumcised."

HAVE YOUR SAY

Do you support the campaign?

tellus@thetimes.co.za

or SMS 33971

R1.50

Each SMS costs

www.autojunction.co.za

SEARCH OVER 18,000 AUTOS IN SA

ON YOUR PC, TABLET OR MOBILE.

Better cars. More often.

www.autojunction.co.za